

The 2011 Arlington High School Marching Band

The Arlington Marching Band's 2011 production TORN presents an artistic interpretation of the struggles faced by America in the decade that has passed since the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. Our students were in elementary school on 9/11 and since then the Nation has faced many setbacks. The threat of terrorist attacks, wars, natural disasters, and economic collapse has torn at the fabric of our Country, and left our children with a sense of heightened uncertainty about the future.

In its 2011 show, the Arlington Marching Band REMEMBERS the tragedies of the past ten years, REFLECTS on our anguish and loss, and challenges us to make a choice: Do we give up on the American dream, or do WE RENEW our commitment to a better future?
